This announcement does not constitute an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to subscribe or purchase any of the securities described herein. Any such offer was made solely by means of a prospectus (in the case of any offer to the public in Switzerland or the EEA) or offering memorandum in compliance with applicable securities laws. Such prospectus was published on 26 April 2006. The prospectus contains detailed information about Swiss Re, its business and operations and its management, and the proposed acquisition, as well as financial statements. There is no public offering of securities of Swiss Re in the United States. Any securities of Swiss Re offered or sold in the United States are not being, and will not be, registered under the US Securities Act of 1933 and are not, and will not be, offered and sold, in the United States, except on the basis of applicable exemptions from registration. In connection with the rights offering and global offering (together, the "offering"), UBS Investment Bank, as stabilising manager (the "stabilising manager"), may, for stabilisation purposes, over-allot shares offered under such offering ("offered shares") up to a maximum of 20% of the number of global shares comprised in the offering. For the purposes of allowing the stabilising manager to cover short positions resulting from any such over-allotments and/or from sales of offered shares effected by it during the stabilising period, Swiss Re has granted to it an option (the "over-allotment option") pursuant to which the stabilising manager may require Swiss Re to sell offered shares, which were not taken up by shareholders during the rights offering and not set aside as underlying shares for the over-allotment option, up to a maximum of 15% of the number of global shares initially included in the global offering at the offer price. The over-allotment option is exercisable in whole or in part, upon notice by the stabilising manager, for 30 calendar days after the commencement of trading of the offered shares on virt-x. Any offered shares subject to the over-allotment option will form a single class for all purposes with the other offered shares. Any offered shares with respect to which the over-allotment option is not exercised will be used to satisfy share delivery obligations in respect of mandatory convertible instruments already issued or to be issued in connection with the proposed acquisition of GEIS.

In connection with any offering, the stabilising manager, or any of its agents, may (but will be under no obligation to), to the extent permitted by applicable law, over-allot and effect other transactions with a view to supporting the market price of the offered shares at a level higher than that which might otherwise prevail in the open market. The stabilising manager will not be required to enter into such transactions and such transactions may be effected on any stock market, over-the-counter market or otherwise. Such stabilising measures, if commenced, may be discontinued at any time and may only be taken during the period from the commencement of trading of the offered shares on the SWX Swiss Exchange and virt-x up to and including the date that is 30 calendar days thereafter. Save as required by law or regulation, neither the stabilising manager nor any of its agents intends to disclose the extent of any over-allotments and/or stabilisation transactions under the offering.

Stabilisation may be undertaken at any time in accordance with the foregoing paragraphs, but there is no assurance that it will be undertaken and, if undertaken, it may be halted at any time. Stabilisation transactions may result in a market price for our shares that is higher than would otherwise prevail.

This is not a prospectus but an advertisement. Investors should not purchase any of the shares referred to in this document except on the basis of information in the prospectus dated 26 April 2006. Investors should also consult with their tax and/or financial advisor.
