

Nikhil da Victoria Lobo

As of 1 July 2020 Market Executive for Western and Southern Europe at Swiss Re / Member of EMEA Management Team (currently Managing Director and Head of Americas for its Public Sector Solutions Division)

Professional experience

Nikhil da Victoria Lobo started his career at Securitas Capital in 2001. He joined Swiss Re in Armonk, New York in 2003 through the International Graduate Program working in Reinsurance Latin America and continued his path as an underwriter in the Latin American Facultative Property team.

In 2008, Nikhil joined Swiss Re's Public Sector Solutions business as one of its first client managers. In this role, he has initiated and nurtured relationships with senior government and business leaders in the US, Canada and Latin America and developed Swiss Re's public sector franchise from greenfield.

In 2017 he was appointed a Managing Director and Head of Americas for Public Sector Solutions.

During his career, Nikhil has worked on such innovative projects as the World Bank's Pandemic Emergency Facility, the first global insurance coverage for epidemic outbreaks and the Caribbean Catastrophe Risk Insurance Facility, the first insurance pool for climate risks for sovereigns; and the Uruguay Drought Hedge, the first insurance policy to cover a government's exposure to volatile climate and energy prices. He has been a panellist at international events including the World Economic Forum and IMF Annual Meetings.

Educational background:

Bachelor of Science in Economics, the Wharton School of Business, University of Pennsylvania

March 2020